

La Macchina Molto Bella 2022 by Jim Weed

Akron, Ohio, home of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. Former home of Goodrich, Firestone and General Tire, also. Akron is known as the rubber capital of the world.

The founders of Goodyear were a pair of brothers named Franklin A. Seiberling and Charles W. Seiberling. Their company was named after the man who invented vulcanized rubber, Charles Goodyear.

The Seiberlings guided Goodyear until 1921 when they resigned during a company reorganization. They later founded Seiberling Rubber Company.

Seiberling Rubber Company is not a household name but you are familiar with the tires they made.

Every vehicle during World War II carried tires made or designed by Seiberling. The non-directional tread design used on military jeeps and trucks came from Seiberling.

An industrialist, Frank Seiberling built a grand house on par with Vanderbuilt, du Pont, and Hearst.

Stan Hywet Hall and Gardens was built from 1912 to 1915. Stan Hywet is Old English for stone quarry. Upon F.A. Seiberling's death in 1955, Stan Hywet became a non-profit historic house museum, open for tours so that the public could benefit from the cultural, educational, and inspirational riches of one of the most significant achievements in architecture and horticulture.

With 64,500 square feet, it is among the largest mansions in the U. S. The expansive grounds house greenhouses and orchards, tennis courts and a lagoon. The rear terrace overlooks rolling hills of the Ohio countryside.

The Great Meadow precedes the front of the home and has been used on many occasions through the years. The Seiberlings liked to share their good fortune by providing grand entertainment to the people of Akron, Ohio.

This tradition carries on today with the La Macchina Molto Bella Auto Show. The event is held in the Great Meadow with Stan Hywet Hall as a backdrop and would make the original owner proud.

Full disclosure here: one of the co-founders of La Macchina Molto Bella, David Nelson, paid for Linda and me to come to Akron and see what this show is all about. Thanks, David!

We flew up on Friday to attend the pre-banquet. Frank Todaro, another co-founder of La Macchina, owns a banquet hall and provided the space and food along with staff to serve. His is a first-class operation.

Various automobiles surrounded the dinner tables set up in preparation of the coming feast. A 599 GTO was in one corner. A 458 Speciale was in the other.

A 1966 Mustang, no, correction, it was an honest-to-God Hertz rent-a-racer with 4-speed, fresh from restoration.

Nearby was a Mangusta with four glorious Weber carburetors and a Pontiac GTO that any part of the car could be licked and not get your tongue dirty.

Surrounding this eye candy were silent auction items that could be bid on, ranging from bottles of wine to garage art. Did I mention this show was for a good cause?

The Summit Kidney Foundation is the recipient of funds raised. Frank Todaro and his father, Camilo "Mel" Todaro, along with David Nelson, wanted to bring automobiles together in exhibition and celebration.

Unfortunately, Mel Todaro passed away from kidney cancer before the first show in 2013. This strengthened the resolve to make this a gathering of automotive history and provided a purpose for the hard work involved for a show this size.

Now in its ninth year, this show brings out both fantastically special cars to be near American muscle cars, antiques and anything else fun and exciting.

The best part is the judging - there isn't any. All cars are special if the owners love them, and it's clear people love their automobiles.

The banquet hall is filled with three hundred people who have come to eat, drink and donate their money. Conversations are easy and although I don't know many folks in the room, we have cars in common.

While admiring the Mangusta I run into a subscriber, David Tarditi; we met in Sebring at the 2021 FCA Annual Meet. He remembered my Edsel and when it broke down. We had fun talking cars and the market in general.

Soon it is auction time. Besides the silent auction items there are even more special items to be live auctioned.

It may look like a big-block Chevrolet engine on a stand until you grab the exhaust header to reveal a grill ready for brats and burgers.

Need a neon sign for the garage wall? Yep, it could be yours. Want a roll-a-round toolbox? Yep, you could bid on one.

The show was to be on Sunday, September 11th. The infamous date could not be helped.

The plan for the show would include a tribute to that fateful day but Mother Nature had a different plan.

Weather on Sunday was rainy, and the show was postponed one week to Sunday, September 18th. A better day could not have been chosen.

Unfortunately, photos will have to describe the cars and atmosphere as Linda and I could not stay (or could not return) for the show. Needless to say, we will make a point to return next year!

Nearly four hundred cars graced the meadow and $100,000 was donated to The Summit Kidney Foundation. This donation added to previous years makes a total of $600,000. All for a good cause. Not bad, huh.

La Macchina Molto Bella cars of all types on display with proud owners.

My Ferrari Story (a reminiscence)

by Bob Raymond

I became interested in Ferraris in 1964 when I was in high school. A friend of mine worked at Rich Motors Sports Cars in Glendale, California, where they had a beautiful yellow 250 Testa Rossa they raced mostly at Riverside Raceway.

At this time, I quite often saw a Ferrari convertible there and around town I was crazy about.

Drafted into the Army in 1966, I served until August, 1968. While in the military, I sometimes read Road & Track magazine and watched the occasional Formula 1 race on TV. This kept me up to date on what Ferrari was doing.

After the Army, I went home to Southern California, where I often drove by Hollywood Sport Cars to see what Ferrari models were available for the lucky people who could afford one of their beautiful cars.

In 1976, I had the brilliant idea to purchase a used Ferrari. Thinking that I couldn't afford a new model, I could surely buy an old one. Everybody knows the older the car, the cheaper it is.

This is when my education on Ferraris really started. There were quite a few older Ferraris for sale in the local paper's classified ads; however, things just didn't make sense to me.

The older models weren't as cheap as I expected. Open cars were even more expensive than the coupes, and quite often, the engines had been switched to a Chevy or Ford.

I knew what the car I wanted looked like, but I didn't know the model. I was still young and soon realized I was out of my depth.

I can't recall how I got his name, but somebody told me I ought to contact a fellow named Ed Niles; he might be able to help me out.

I worked evenings, so I spent many of my days at the beach. When I called Niles, he said to come over, and we could talk a little bit about those Italian cars I was nuts about.

We figured we'd stop by on the way to the beach, not a big deal. When we located Niles, it turned out to be at his office building.

We went up and entered the office of a very successful attorney; we were dressed for the beach, barefoot and in shorts.

When the secretary asked what we wanted, I told her Ed Niles wanted to talk to us about a Ferrari. She said, "oh, great," and ushered us into his office, all wood-paneled, leather upholstered, and plush.

Niles stood up from behind the desk, introduced himself, asked us to sit down, and said, "So you like Ferraris, do you?"

After talking about Ferraris for a while, I finally understood why older Ferraris were different and how some models were more desirable than others. Remember, this was years before Ferraris became the collector items they are today.

Anyway, we finally concluded that the car I was after was a 250 GT PF Cabriolet Series II. He knew of one currently for sale but it wasn't in very good condition. We took the address, thanked him, and headed off to the beach.

Unfortunately, that car didn't pan out; no engine or drive train, no seats, and a stripped instrument panel. But at least I now knew what I was looking for, which was a big help.

Over the next year, I checked out a lot of Ferraris. I remember one 275 GTB/4 parked on an island in the center of Pacific Coast Highway, for sale ... $15,000. The car was in the middle of nowhere, the nearest home blocks away.

It took until halfway through 1977 to find a PF Cabriolet; Ferrari of San Diego (the old Ferrari of San Diego) had two cars come in on a Ferrari swap. So I drove down to take a look.

Of course, they had a beautiful 250 GT Spyder California for sale for $30,000. Too rich for my blood; the 250 Cabriolets were what I was looking for.

I liked the red one, but it wasn't available until after some work was completed (engine rebuild, etc.) and it was $10,000, something I could just about afford.

In the meantime, I transferred my job to the Pacific Northwest to satisfy my two other passions, skiing and alpine climbing. Of course, I kept checking on the Cabriolet down in San Diego.

Finally, they said the engine was done and to come back and get it.

On arrival from the airport (I don't remember how I got to Ferrari of San Diego, taxi, I guess), I went in and there it was, shiny red paint with brilliant Borrani wire wheels.

It was just what I wanted. I hardly remember the salesperson telling me the brakes weren't too good and I would have to pump them if I wanted to stop. I didn't care; it was a straight shot north from San Diego to Vancouver, Washington.

I have to admit, to this day, the drive all the way up the west coast is the best drive I have ever taken.

As an afterthought, here are a few things I wish I had known and wish I had done.

First off, I wish I had known about the Ferrari Market Letter; I would have had cars to compare with, and I would have known what was missing and what was changed.

In those days, it took years to locate missing parts or find somebody who knew how to fabricate a correct body part. I spent the winter rebuilding the brakes; thank God for FAF (FAF was a business devoted to Ferraris and parts. They were a wealth of knowledge and help for early Ferrari owners.).

I received a letter from Ferrari of San Diego several months after I purchased S/N 2131 GT. In it they told me how lucky I was to own a Ferrari at my age and that I shouldn't sweat the small stuff that came with owning an old Ferrari.

I guess they were right, as I still have my 250 GT PF Cabriolet. I'm like a dinosaur who can go out into the garage, look at my old set of wheels and remember the sound of that V-12 engine and feel the wind in my hair.

2023 Purosangue SUV Revealed by Wallace Wyss

Ferrari refuses to use the American phrase SUV but they built one, called the Purosangue which means “thoroughbred.”

They claim their four-door, four-seater uses a “completely different layout and innovative proportions compared to modern GT archetypes (so-called cross-overs and SUVs)”.

The vehicle has a V-12 engine mounted aft of the front axle while the eight-speed rear transaxle is mounted way out back.

This results in a weight balance of 49 front/51 rear that would be good even in a mid-front-engine sports car.

They can't claim a first for a V-12 in an SUV (the Lamborghini LM002 of 1986-1993 had one.) But that was more than a quarter century ago.

The engine is based on the F140IA, used in the Ferrari 812 and FF, the Maserati Birdcage 75th and the Enzo. The alloy block has a 65-degree V, dry sump and direct injection and is rated at 715 peak hp in the Purosangue.

Ferrari engineered it to give you that steady increase in power feeling, starting as low as 80 percent of its 528 lb. ft. of torque being available at or below 2100 rpm. Peak horsepower is reached at 7750 revs.

Adapting the engine from present Ferraris, they made changes in intake, timing and exhaust systems with the heads right from 812 Competizione. Ferrari told reporters at the preview that it boasts “the most powerful engine in its segment.”

Lamborghini Urus, 641 hp.

Porsche Cayenne Turbo S E-Hybrid Coupe, 670 hp.

Aston Martin DBX 707 model, 697 hp.

Maserati Levante, 580 hp.

Comparing it to earlier Ferrari four-seaters, it uses a lot of lightweight materials--the lower chassis is aluminum.

The roof is carbon fiber, with some steel. That makes it lighter and stiffer than any previous Ferrari four-seater. And they bring back “opera” doors (so much nicer than the American nickname “suicide” for rear hinged doors).

The active suspension technology uses Multimatic's True Active Spool Valve (TASV) System which combines electric motor actuation with high-precision spool valve hydraulic dampers.

They claim the electric motor ensures that the body and wheels can be controlled actively with more force authority and at higher frequencies than traditional adaptive or semi-active systems.

So don't worry about it not performing like a Ferrari. Plus in the areas of “usability and comfort” they claim it's top of the market.

Extensive electronics are used to control handling including the new ABS ‘evo’ controller and brake-by-wire system first offered in the 296 GTB to Electronic Stability Control, SSC (Side Slip Control) 8.0, to the 4RM-S system developed for the GTC4Lusso, which has been further developed with innovations made to the control logic originally developed for the SF90 Stradale's 4WD system. And of course with four-wheel-steering first seen in the Ferrari lineup on the 812 Competizione.

Inside they wanted it to look nothing like an SUV. They claim it has a “signature GT sports car aesthetic,” inspired by the SF90 Stradale, most notably the 10.2-inch display surrounded by dual-cockpit dashboard concept.

Top speed sounds unbelievably high for an SUV that's not an SUV-- 0-62 mph in 3.3 seconds, 0-124 in 10.5, and a top end of 193 mph.

Price exceeds the estimated $350,000 they hinted at before introduction. Remember it's going to be limited in production so they don't look like an SUV maker (which they imply Porsche did after 500,000 Cayennes). Sometime mid-year 2023, look for the Purosangue in showrooms with a starting price closer to $400,000.

In sum, brilliant to offer a V-12 even though internal combustion cars are being hounded by the black cloud of EVs., Ferrari's most famous engine configuration in what could be near the end of their ICE cars.

246 DINO BUMPERS: U.S. VERSION - FOUR BRAND NEW, still in factory packaging ... never opened. These bumpers have never been used. In 1979, at the age of 19, I bought my first Ferrari in Modena, Italy. Knowing that I would have to bring the car up to DOT and EPA specs, I went to the Ferrari Factory in Maranello Italy and bought four extra bumpers at the factory (because I was afraid I might screw things up when modifying the existing European version bumpers while attempting to meet DOT specs). The bumpers are STILL in the factory plastic and tape, and they have never been touched by human hand since the summer of 1979. $6,000 USD OBO. 4717
