

Updating the VIN ... again By Cathy Roush

You've probably heard me say, I was late to this party. Actually, this is my second trip to the party, growing up around Ferraris, then graduating from college and working in the field of accounting. I never really left the Ferrari Market Letter, but was strictly in an administrative position. Now I'm the Roush in charge. LOL.

The last time we updated how to decode your Ferrari's 17-digit VIN was in 2011. I had become responsible for editing classified ads and was being tripped up by a change in the sequence of digits for a California.

Recently I received a list of VINs for one of the newer Special Edition models and once again found myself confused by a digit. This was due to a particular VIN having a digit for a market we rarely, if ever, get a VIN for.

When I questioned the donor of the list, he was gracious enough to provide me with an update on the composition of the VIN for models California forward, including the 488 Pista.

I'd like to share the updated information with you.

EVERY Ferrari 17-digit VIN starts with "ZFF."

The following codes for the remainder of the 17-digit VIN may not be 100 percent accurate – corrections and additions will be greatly appreciated!

The FOURTH and FIFTH DIGITS refer to the model:

- 65 = California
- 66 = Scuderia Spider 16M
- 67 = 458 Italia
- 68 = 458 Spider
- 69 = 599 XX
- 70 = 599 GTO
- 71 = 458 Challenge
- 72 = SA Aperta
- 73 = FF
- 74 = F12berlinetta
- 75 = 458 Speciale
- 76 = LaFerrari
- 77 = California T
- 78 = 458 Speciale Aperta
- 79 = 488 GTB
- 80 = 488 Spider
- 81 = F12tdf
- 82 = GTC4Lusso

- 83 = 812 Superfast
- 84 = FXX K
- 85 = F60 America
- 86 = LaFerrari Aperta
- 87 = 488 Challenge
- 88 = J50
- 89 = Portofino
- 90 = 488 Pista
- 91 = 488 Pista Spider

There used to be more unassigned numbers. Most likely those labeled as "unknown" were assigned to other proposed or prototype Ferraris that never made it into production. It is interesting to speculate on what they might have been.

Additionally, and you don't have to be a numbers freak like myself to wonder what's going to happen after 99. What 'was' 01, the 308 GT4, will become ... your guess is as good as mine!

The SIXTH DIGIT identifies the engine type. The website <http://www.red-headed.com/vin.html> is a wealth of information for this section, even providing the engine type, and yes, we track engine numbers even for the newest models in our database.

Information has been updated from 2011 as such, because the system uses letters of the alphabet and thus has to be repeated.

First cycle: Engine introduction before approximately 1986.

Second cycle: Engine introduction between approximately 1986 and 2001.

Third cycle: Engine introduction between approximately 2001 and 2015.

Fourth cycle: Engine introduction after approximately 2015.

L = California F136IB DCT (F1)
 M = California F136IB Manual gear-box, only used on a few cars.

N = 458 Italia, 458 Spider, 458 Challenge F136FB

P = 599 XX F140CF

R = 599 GTO, SA Aperta F140CE

S = FF F140EB

T = California 30 F136IH

U = F12berlinetta F140FC

V = 458 Speciale (A) F136FL

W = GTC4Lusso F140ED V12

X = California T F154BB

Y = GTC4Lusso T F154BD V8

Z = LaFerrari, LaFerrari Aperta F140FE

A = 488 GTB, 488 Spider F154CB

B = F12tdf, F60 America F140FG

C = 812 Superfast F140GA

D = FXX K ?

E = 488 Challenge ?

F = Portofino ?

G = unknown / not used.

H = Dual stage airbags and side-airbags, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter, no passenger airbag ON/OFF switch.

J = Advanced airbags and side-airbags, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter for front and rear, plus two lower anchorages for each rear seat, no passenger airbag ON/OFF switch.

K = Advanced airbags and side-airbags, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter for front and rear, plus LATCH* system for rear seats, no passenger airbag ON/OFF switch.

L = Dual stage airbags and side-airbags, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter, upper tether anchorage system on passenger seat and roll-over protection system.

M = Dual stage airbags and side-airbags, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter and roll-over protection system.

N = [on GTC4Lusso].

P = [on Portofino].

X = [on racecars and prototypes].

*LATCH = Lower Anchorage and Tether for Children system.

The SEVENTH DIGIT identifies the safety system. With fewer than 23 letters available (again, "I," "O," and "Q" were not used because of their similarity to the numbers "1" and "0") it has become necessary to use the same letter more than once.

Again, there was a first cycle for models introduced before approximately 2004 and a second cycle for models introduced after 2004.

The second cycle is presented here:

A = Airbags for driver and passenger, 3-point manual seats belts with pretensioners and load limiter for front and rear, plus LATCH* system for rear seats.

B = Airbag for driver, advanced airbags for passenger, 3-point manual seats belts with pretensioners and load limiter for front and rear, plus LATCH* system for rear seats (MY 2009-11: advanced airbags for driver and passenger).

C = Airbag for driver, advanced airbags for passenger, 3-point manual seats belts with pretensioners and load limiter, plus tether anchorage on passenger seat (MY 2009-11: advanced airbags for driver and passenger, plus side-airbags).

D = [on some versions of the 599 GTO, SA Aperta and GTB Fiorano].

E = unknown / not used.

F = Airbags for driver and passenger, 3-point safety belts with pretensioners and load limiter, plus tether anchorage on passenger seat (MY 2011 and later: advanced airbags plus side-airbags).

The EIGHTH DIGIT identifies the primary market for which the car was manufactured, as follows:

A = LHD North America

B = LHD European

C = RHD UK

D = RHD Oceania (was Australia)

E = LHD East Asia

J = LHD Japan (also JAP or JPN)

L = LHD South America or South Korea

S = LHD Sweden or Switzerland (OMITTED FROM NEWEST LIST)

T = LHD Middle East

X = Other (oneoffs, prototypes & race cars) NOW REFERRED TO AS RACE CARS

The NINTH DIGIT is the "USA Check Digit" and is calculated using all of the other digits in the VIN. It is used only on cars intended for the North American market. On Ferraris for other markets this digit is always a zero except for Japan where it may be an A or a P.

The TENTH DIGIT designates the model year and is used only on Ferraris manufactured for the North American and some Middle East markets. On cars for other markets this will always be a zero except for Japan where it sometimes will be a "P" or "N." Once number 9 was used it became necessary to reuse the alphabet. Simple enough. Again, "I," "O" and "Q" are not used, and neither was "U" or "Z."

- 1 = 2001
- 2 = 2002
- 3 = 2003
- 4 = 2004
- 5 = 2005
- 6 = 2006
- 7 = 2007
- 8 = 2008
- 9 = 2009
- A = 2010
- B = 2011
- C = 2012
- D = 2013
- E = 2014
- F = 2015
- G = 2016
- H = 2017
- J = 2018
- K = 2019

The ELEVENTH DIGIT designates the assembly plant that produced that particular vehicle. Since Ferrari has only one plant in Maranello, there is no need for any designation, so this digit is always a zero.

The TWELFTH through SEVENTEENTH DIGITS are considered the production sequence number, or what we used to call the serial number.

This 17-digit system was only required in the U.S. as of January 1980. Certain digits denoting particulars for model year 2010 forward were switched, but this article only addresses models 2010 forward, so I won't address the order prior to that time. If you are interested, we have back issues (in particular #2602 and #2909, my update in 2011, #3615).

A quick of comment about the year codes. The 17-digit VIN was started in 1980 with the code "A". The 2010 code is also "A".

The way the codes have been used so far have some consistency.

Years 1985, 1995, 2005, and 2015 have codes "F", "S", "5" and "F". Following this pattern a 2025 will have a "S" and 2035 should be "5".

Learning the year codes requires knowledge of several years and then you can add or subtract the alphabet to read the model year. Jim Weed

Asking Price Index It's That Time Again By Cathy Roush

One of my favorite bi-weekly tasks is the compilation of the Asking Price Index. I'm a numbers chick as well as a car chick. I suppose if I wasn't busy with the Ferrari Market Letter, I'd still be preparing tax returns somewhere.

For a while, Dad and I would work on this task together and quite often get tickled at some odd combination of numbers; it could have been something as simple as a nice round $100,000 (it's just as likely as any other number combination). It could have been a sequence like $123,456. Of course I'd try to trip him up and add a 7 at the end of that one. Which makes it a million dollar car rather than ... well, you understand.

Of course, I'd really crack up if the asking price was the same as the last five or six digits of the serial number (it almost never happens). Hey, why not have a little fun at work?

We do take the API seriously, and have even been told 'that's the ONLY reason I subscribe'. I've also been told by an individual advertising a particular car that it's the first thing he looks at, and then adjusts his asking price.

At the end of every year when it's time to set up the spreadsheet for the next year, discussion will ensue around the office as to whether it's time to add a model. The 'old' rule was a particular model had to be out of production for a number of years before it could be added. We changed that several years ago because production cycles are much longer now.

For 2019, we are adding the F12berlinetta. Of course we have been tracking asking prices for the last three years so the data will represent. I am already tracking prices for the 488 series.

Unfortunately it means something has to come off the Index. A few years ago we used to separate out the 1989 model year 328s. Combining those models gave us room to add several models.

Other price indexes might provide more detail, by year of production for the newer models, for example, separate F1 from 6-speed, or even provide a range from low to average to high.

We just don't have the room on a single page. And remember, our Asking Price Index is meant to show trends over the last three years. Not provide an exact price for which you can expect to pay (or be paid) for any particular model.

Like Dad would say when posed with the question "what's my Ferrari worth?" – what's a three bedroom house worth?

Back to the discussion at hand. We've added the F12berlinetta. Hmm...do we pull the oldest model? Jim suggested removing the PF Coupe. But my argument against is there are two being offered in the current issue. Remember, this is a democracy (so long as she wins).

Do we take into consideration whether there have been classified ads for a particular model in the last few years? Gosh, most of the Supercars don't get many ads. But it's fun to watch the trends for the F50, Enzo, F40, etc.

Unfortunately we probably won't ever put the LaFerrari or 599 GTO on the Asking Price Index. Prices for these can be tracked throughout any year by seeing what they go for at auction.

Should we remove a model whose value has remained constant over the three year period we present? Several models fall into this criteria, but I only need one.

This year we thought about removing the 275 GTB/4 (only one was offered in 2018).

Ultimately we decided on the Mondial 8. I don't even remember the last time we had a classified ad for one. It was not an easy decision; certainly I expect to hear from some Mondial 8 owners who feel slighted.

1959 Ferrari 250/500TRC (DK Engineering) Titled as a 1962 Ferrari 250 GTE

F40 Motorsports is proud to offer this very rare DK Engineering 250/500 TRC (TR83). S/N 2423 was originally converted from a 250 GTE 2+2 Series I LHD into a 250/500 TRC by David Cottingham himself - this of the DK Engineering Fame, in the 1980s. It retains its original title as a 250 Ferrari, and is an absolutely stunning example of true old world craftsmanship and unsurpassed quality. This fine TRC has been owned by only a handful of the most discerning automobile collectors. Eligible for historic events as well as the Copper State 1000 and Colorado Grand to name a couple. The last DK Engineering car came up for sale three years ago.

A unique opportunity to own one of the most beautiful, rare, and most sought after David Cottingham TRs. It is stunning and ready to go. You won't find another like this, and it's here at F40 Motorsports for your viewing.
