

Jess G. Pourret: 1932-2018 By Chris Roush

Jess G. Pourret, one of the original Ferrari historians whose work documenting the cars led to interest around the world, died on Nov. 17, 2018 at the age of 85. He had been recently treated for bone cancer.

Born Francis Jean Garabedian Pourret, his father was Armenian and his mother French. His mother hated calling him Jess, according to friend Cyrille Jaquinot, and Jess hated that his mother called him Francis.

Pourret took an interest in Ferraris in the early 1960s, according to correspondence with Jaquinot. He attended the 1961 Nürburgring 1,000 km race won by Masten Gregory and Lucky Casner in a Maserati Tipo 61. But Pourret was sitting in the Camoradi stands near the stands for the Ferrari factory and NART teams, and a NART 250 Testa Rossa driven by the Rodriguez brothers finished second while factory Dino 246 SP driven by Wolfgang von Trips, Richie Ginther and Olivier Gendebien finished third.

He started working in the car business at Simca in Paris. Pourret, an owner of Bugatti and creator of Club Bugatti France, quickly converted the owners of Bugatti to Ferrari when he joined Franco-Britannic Autos Ltd in 1965. Franco-Britannic had become the first exclusive Ferrari importer to France in 1958. He also worked for Charles Pozzi, another Ferrari importer in France.

It was during this time that Pourret began buying his first Ferraris. He purchased S/N 0973 GT, a 250 GT LWB Scaglietti Berlinetta, in 1965. The car had finished seventh in the 1958 Tour de France. Around the same time, Pourret purchased S/N 2175 GT, a 250 GT SWB Spyder California, that he owned through the late 1960s.

In 1968, Pourret purchased S/N 3607 GT, a 250 GTO, from Pierre Bardinon and owned it until 1987 before selling it to Bob Rubin. Pourret was working at Ferrari France when it acquired S/N 4725, a 330 LMB, from Maranello Concessionaires and drove it a bit and contemplated buying it. Instead, he advised Bardinon to purchase the car.

He was also advancing interest in Ferraris in other ways during this time period. In 1968, Pourret was a co-founder of the Club Ferrari France and had hoped to attend its recent 50th anniversary event. Amerigo Manicardi, the commercial director at the factory in the 1960s, gave Pourret the authorization to start the club. At the same time, Pourret began corresponding with other Ferrari enthusiasts around the world.

Chuck Queener said he first met Pourret in 1971 at an event at Mas du Clos, the race track owned by Bardinon. Queener was president of the Ferrari Owners Club at the time, and he and Pourret swapped serial numbers for 250 GTs. "I had about 25, and he had about 25, so we each managed to get up into the 30s" by swapping, remembered Queener. "He diligently collected all of that stuff. He cared more about Ferraris than he cared about people. He said it was much nicer to ride around in a noisy GTO so you didn't have to listen to the pretty girl sitting next to you."

Pourret moved to the United States in the early 1970s, working for Alberto Pedretti's Modena Racing, later known as Modena Sports Cars and Wide World of Cars, in New York. In 1972, he began corresponding with Ferrari Market Letter founder Gerald Roush, then a history graduate student at Auburn University. In a letter dated Oct. 16, 1972, Pourret, using a purple ink pen that was his trademark, wrote in great detail about history he knew of several Ferraris, including several GTs and a 330 LMB. He ended the letter by stating, "If you don't mind, call me Jess, that'll be fine. Please excuse me again for answering so late but keep on asking what you need." In 1974 and 1975, they exchanged multiple-page letters filled with serial numbers and details of each car.

At the time, Pourret was working on his seminal work, published in 1977. His book "The Ferrari Legend: 250 GT Competition" was a 382-page history of every Tour de France, Short Wheel Base and GTO built by Ferrari. It meticulously documented the racing history of each car and also provided details of when the cars were built, original colors, original owners and other information. The book also included many photos of the cars. More than 40 years later, it is considered one of the greatest Ferrari books ever published. "That book was really the beginning of the interest in matching numbers, history, provenance, and thereby really began the acceleration in prices of these cars," said Ferrari collector Peter Sachs. "It got much broader interest in the history of these cars than had existed before."

Noted Ferrari historian Marcel Massini remembers purchasing the book in October 1977 shortly after meeting Pourret at a Club Ferrari France meeting at Mas du Clos. "It set new standards because it contained individual histories of each chassis built," said Massini. "That fascinated me, of course." Massini exchanged a series of handwritten letters with Pourret between 1977 and 1982 when he was doing research for his book on the 250 LM. "He supplied information for which I was most grateful," remembered Massini.

In 1984, Pourret published again, this time a French-language book on histories of the 275 GTB, 275 GTS, and 275 GTB-4A, which ranged from the prototype Scaglietti bodied 275 GTB cars in 1964, through to the coach work on the 275 GTs by Pininfarina.

In addition to his books, Pourret was instrumental in numerous Ferrari celebrations, including the organization of the first 250 GTO birthday in 1982, and the anniversary celebration of Phil Hill in Mas du Clos with Pierre Bardinon. He also created Cavallino International, a Ferrari club.

After selling his 250 GTO in 1987, Pourret moved to Chiang Mai, Thailand, and lived there for most of the rest of his life, but he continued to visit France, keeping a home in Burgundy where he stored his 250 MM Vignale Spyder, S/N 0274 MM, and a 246 GTS Dino, S/N 7271. Sachs, who now oversees the Klementaski Collection, remembers visiting the house in France where there was a sign in the garage that said: "The following GTOs have spent the night in this garage." Sachs recalled "There was a long list. He was a great friend for many years and a unique personality. He had very strong opinions, but that was part of his personality."

Indeed, Pourret didn't like Ferrari experts who crowed about their knowledge to others as a way of promoting themselves. In one 2005 letter in the Ferrari Market Letter archives, he wrote about someone who was "getting a bit too talkative on the Internet" and who "should be a bit more discreet for his and our own good. That's a bit annoying at the moment." In another letter, he noted "quite a few things funny with people producing dossiers for certification that show some real funny things, like chassis numbers restamped backwards or restamped in funny places."

Queener said he had a misunderstanding with Pourret in 1992 after a meeting in Spa but that they both soon realized it "was silly not to be friends, and life was too short. We would write each other once a month." Queener noted that Pourret, even after the popularity of the personal computer, would type out his letters and then scan them and send them to him as a jpeg or facsimile. The Ferrari Market Letter archives are full of letters faxed back and forth – not emailed – between Pourret and Roush, with each asking the other about information for a specific serial number.

Pourret was also a personal friend of Jean Todt, the general manager of Scuderia Ferrari and later CEO of the entire company, which gave him access to the company's records and allowed him insight into how the operation worked. "Pourret was a Ferrari dinosaur with excellent connections in Modena and Maranello and clearly he was one of the very first serious Ferrari historians," said Massini.

In Thailand, Pourret organized the Ferrari Club Thailand and researched and wrote a book about the Yao tribes, a non-Chinese minority that moved from the southern Chinese provinces into northern Vietnam, then Laos and finally Thailand. Pourret researched and traced the history of the different Yao tribes in much the same way he had tracked the history of individual Ferraris. Queener noted that Pourret collected artifacts from Yao tribes that he used to open a museum and was also a tea exporter.

Queener said that Pourret had recently been working on a book about Enzo Ferrari and had done two pieces of artwork, including the cover, for it. He's unsure what will happen to the manuscript.

Pourret was cremated in Chiang Mai, and his ashes are being returned to France at the Tharoiseau cemetery in France to be buried near his mother.

Artcurial Sale Automobiles sur les Champs 14 November 4, 2018

365 GT 2+2, S/N 12963 (1969). Silver with black leather. Estimate $225,000 to $285,000. Delivered new to Portugal in June 1969 in the current color combination and had only one owner until the end of the 1990s. Since then it has had two owners in Holland, including the current one. Original documentation, manual and instruction books in leather pouch. Matching numbers, always well maintained, and verified by the Ferrari dealership in Kassel, Germany. With Borrani spoke rims (the original rims are available). Original black leather with very beautiful patina. Lot 17. Not sold.

TESTAROSSA, S/N 89491 (1991). Yellow with black leather. Estimate $102,000 to $136,000. Delivered new by Etablissements Auto 2000, in Lille, in February 1991. Its first owner, a Ferrari collector, had the car registered for the first time in 1993 and kept it for nearly 22 years. The current owner acquired it in 2015 with only 21,000 km. It has been extensively serviced, including the replacement of timing belts. New Michelin Pilot Sport tires. An aluminum set including footrests, pedals and gear knob was installed; the original parts have been preserved. Its yellow paint is in a very good condition. With original manuals, cover in giallo color, jack and tool kit. Two owner example with 25,500 km. since new and remarkably well preserved. Lot 63. Not sold.

208 GT4, S/N 11684 (1976). Red with beige interior. Estimate $45,500 to $68,000. Sold new in Italy in 1976. With fabric and original well-preserved beige imitation leather interior, electric windows, air conditioning and radio. It was imported into Germany in 2002, then, between 2009 and 2012, it benefited from numerous mechanical works at Ferrari, with invoices. Our collector acquired it in 2014 and entrusted it to a Ferrari mechanic to carry out electrical work and a mechanical overhaul, as shown in a photographic file. In good condition and working order. Lot 58. Sold for $37,972.

308 GTS, S/N 29819 (1979). Blue with beige leather. Estimate $68,000 to $90,000. Leaving the factory in October 1979, and delivered new in California on March 8, 1980, as shown in its service book. It then changed ownership in December of the same year, until 2015, when it was imported into Germany. Well preserved, the car has been brought up to European standards, with the removal of the catalytic converter, bumpers, and an overhaul including the replacement of shock absorbers, service of the brakes and restoration of the air conditioning. In August 2017, the mirrors were replaced, the carburation revised, the steering refurbished and the front axle adjusted. A mechanical overhaul was also carried out. The car now has an electronic ignition and a stainless steel exhaust system. Metallic night blue livery and original beige interior with books, and tool kit. Lot 59. Not sold.

328 GTB, S/N 76517 (1988). Red with tan leather. Estimate $102,000 to $136,000. Imported by the Swedish agent Europeiska Motorkompaniet on 8 April 1988, it was sold and registered to its first owner one month later on 5 June. The first owner was the Swedish fund managing company Carnegie AB where it must have been used as a company car. They kept it one year as it was sold on 25 May 1989 to the current owner. Total mileage over the 30 years of its life is only 10,950 km. Due to little use, the new owner should have the car properly inspected and serviced, including a cambelts change before using the car. Complete with all its books and tools as well as the guarantee booklet and service book. Lot 62. Sold for $107,134.

348 tb, S/N 94337 (1992). Red with tan leather. Estimate $34,000 to $45,000. Sold new in Bordeaux. Its service book shows rigorous maintenance with all the services recommended by the manufacturer, duly stamped by the official garages of Mérygnac, Bruges and Bayonne. The latest service, including the change of the belts, was accomplished by a Ferrari specialist in Pau. 85,700 km. Perfectly maintained and its mechanicals are in very good condition. During the test, all the electrical elements were working, and the interior was in excellent condition. Lot 61. Sold for $51,533.

Classic Car Auction Yearbook 2017 - 2018

More than twenty-five years ago, classic car specialists and enthusiasts Adolfo Orsi and Raffaele Gazzi realized a need in the marketplace for tracking and understanding the prices of classic cars being bought, sold and then sometimes sold again.

This propelled them to source sales and vehicle data at the few collector car auctions at that time running throughout Europe and the UK. Their passion and work continued to grow along with the auction market, which today is a $1.2 billion-dollar international industry.

Now, supported for a decade by its partner Credit Suisse, the two authors publish every October the Classic Car Auction Yearbook, a robust and quality-driven reference yearbook that encompasses the most significant international auction sales from the past season, as well as unparalleled statistics driven by their database of more than 80,000 different cars.

This "bible of the sector," as some have called it over the years, is a unique collection and profound analysis of classic car market activity that, while remaining the same collectible, hardback yearbook for traditional libraries, continues to be improved and re-imagined every year with new statistics and understanding of market nuances, providing unbiased light and clarity where often there is none.

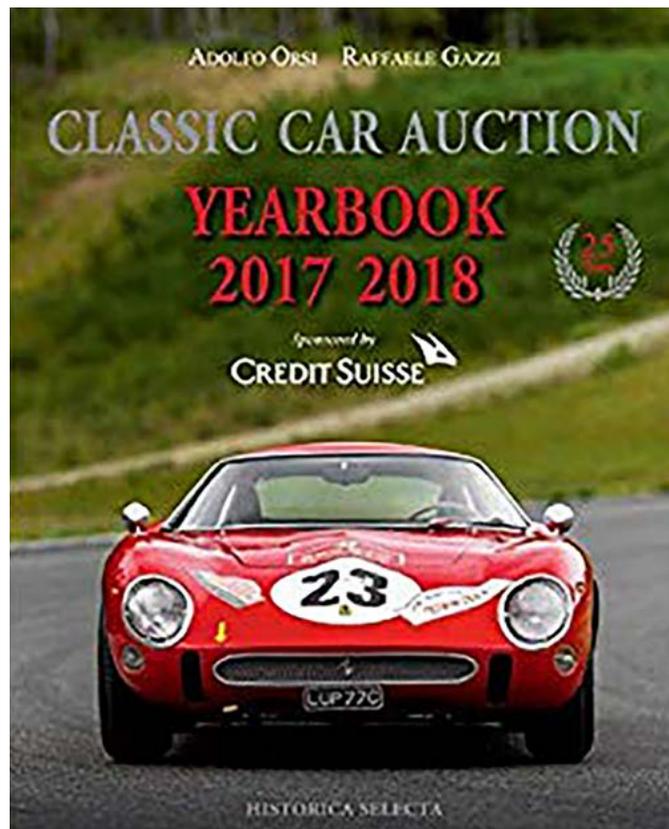

"It seems the market is growing in numerical terms and that the prices, after having been deflated by speculation, are meeting the expectations of buyers, also thanks to the cars without reserve price," writes Adolfo Orsi, historian, specialist, co-author and president of Historica Selecta.

Orsi adds, "The results show that the provenance, together with history, reputation of the restoration shop and authoritativeness of the research, are acquiring a much more significant weight than in the past; this signal, together with more attention to the quality and condition of the car, is to be interpreted as a positive sign in the cultural growth of our sector."

New graphs may be found showing: a) how the average price of cars sold differs significantly due to currency exchange, b) weight of country on total turnover and how the USA has grown from owning half of the market in 2003 to two thirds of the market in 2018, and c) how market turnover is divided by period of manufacturing with percentages of the total and percentages of cars sold, i.e. classic (1946-1964) period cars accounted for $441 million in auction turnover, or 36.66 % of overall sales, with 76.6% of cars sold.

These graphs, in addition to last year's explosion of new statistics and understanding following the authors' investment in their database technology, are best understood by also reading the Author's Comment section in the Yearbook.

The 23rd edition reports on the most important international classic car auction sales from the 1st of September 2017 to the 31st of August 2018, covering 5,628 cars listed among 308 different marques with indication by chassis number and auction results in three currencies (Euro, US dollar and GB pound sterling).

About the Classic Car Auction Yearbook

Launched in 1993, the Classic Car Auction Yearbook, sponsored by Credit Suisse since 2009, is authored and edited by Adolfo Orsi, Jr., and Raffaele Gazzi, founders and historians of consulting firm Historica Selecta, which also publishes the Yearbook.

The new 2017-2018 Classic Car Auction Yearbook has 418 pages, 973 photographs and is available for €70 through an international network of automotive bookstores as well as internet-based retailers.

About the Credit Suisse Classic Car Program

Introduced in 2004, the Credit Suisse Classic Car Program has become immensely popular. Over the past decade, Credit Suisse has built a network of friends and enthusiasts who share a passion for classic cars. Its partnership of outstanding classic events, including its own rallies and its collection of historic vehicles, underline Credit Suisse's commitment to the classic car scene.

Friends of the program include Derek Bell MBE, Jochen Mass and Alain de Cadenet. Credit Suisse also continues to support and celebrate leading historic motoring events, such as the Grand Prix de Monaco Historique and Goodwood Revival. Please visit www.credit-suisse.com/classiccars for more information.

About Historica Selecta

Historica Selecta was founded in Modena, Italy in 1990 by Adolfo Orsi who was soon joined by partner Raffaele Gazzi in 1991.

As leading specialists in the international collector car market and champions for historical preservation, Historica Selecta often advises many of the world's most prestigious manufacturers, museums and collectors.

COPLEY
MOTORCARS

1954 375 Plus Sutton Spyder S/N 0478 AM

Originally raced in Scaglietti trim by legendary drivers, Jack McAfee, Ken Miles and Carroll Shelby, only to be unceremoniously crashed by Shelby at Palm Springs. Re-bodied in 1956 by Hollywood-based Jack Sutton, who earned the nickname, "America's Scaglietti," with 0478 sold to the privateer racing team of Frank Arciero. Fledgling driver, Dan Gurney, would go on to multiple victories in 0478. Considered one of the original eight 375 Plus with its massive 4.9 litre V12 engine, 0478 AM is a 1950s icon.

The Ferrari Market Letter is totally independent and is not affiliated with Ferrari S.p.A., Ferrari North America, any Ferrari club or other Ferrari venture. It is published in print AND posted online, approximately once every two weeks (but definitely 26 times a year)!

Classified advertisements from current subscribers offering Ferraris for sale are published free of charge, appear in six consecutive issues unless cancelled earlier, and are then automatically cancelled unless renewed by the advertiser. Ferrari-related memorabilia, miscellaneous, wanted, etc., ads are accepted and published free of charge with certain additional restrictions (i.e. only one ad per category). Free ads are subjected to editing to conserve space. All classified ads must be Ferrari related.
