

Subjectivity in Concours Judging By Bill Orth

From the beginnings of the Ferrari Club of America, concours judging of our Ferraris has been a major part of the club's activities.

In earlier decades, the judging was largely subjective; how clean, well-presented and authentic the car appeared was good enough. But a way to more critically evaluate these fascinating cars was needed.

Taking the lead in making this change, Ed Gilbertson established the International Advisory Council for the Preservation of the Ferrari Automobile in 1984. (IAC/PFA) Gilbertson enlisted his many like-minded and Ferrari-knowledgeable friends in drafting a set of criteria under which Ferraris could be more equitably judged.

From the outset, this effort was welcomed by the Ferrari community and began to be employed in judged events worldwide.

Full adoption of IAC/PFA standards naturally took some time, but the benefits were quickly recognized. Owners wanted their cars evaluated fairly and annual events cultivating prestigious image and reputations were pleased to have empirical guidelines under which the cars would be judged consistently.

The heart of the IAC/PFA is a twenty-member council composed of individuals who carry serious weight in Ferrari knowledge and experience, and includes practicing top-level restorers and historians.

The group truly represents Ed's goal of perfecting Ferrari judging. The Council meets every year at Cavallino to discuss ideas to improve judging, listen to experts on various Ferrari minutia and fine-tune the process—always aiming for the most objectivity and fairness possible.

The stated goal is to recognize automobiles that correctly reflect how they were built in Maranello decades ago. In this way the mission of 'preserving' these autos is served by rewarding correct restorations, not just the shiniest.

The IAC/PFA also recognizes that they have another role, which is to educate Ferrari owners so they may more accurately restore their cars.

To fast-forward, let's acknowledge that for the past two decades IAC/PFA guidelines have been applied to most of the world's premier Ferrari concours events. Let's stipulate, too, that great effort has been invested in selecting and training the judges who hold IAC/PFA credentials and are committed to reducing subjectivity on the concours field. Given that, how, then, do individual cars sometimes receive different scores at successive events?

That is actually the topic here, as the question is invariably brought up after any event's results are posted. No matter the guidelines, diligence and expertise striving for consistency, apparent inconsistency sometimes pops up.

Simply stated, the judges are human and their opinions are subjective—informed, no doubt, but still subjective. Anticipating this, the Chief Judge assigns individual judges to a given class who he (or she; congratulations, Leslie!) knows to have expertise in those particular cars.

Three judges are assigned to each class to further balance the task and specific protocols are observed to minimize variables. But still, a given car may have been judged at 97 points at Cavallino, but then ten months later at the FCA National receive 95. Or 96. Or 98.

Assuming that the car has remained absolutely the same in the meantime, how is this possible...if we are judging by specific guidelines and rules? As knowledgeable as they may be, each judge has a little different depth of knowledge of a particular Ferrari detail, or a little different background, and these variances can account for a point or two.

As examples, let's say that the judge assigned to evaluate the exterior (one does exterior, another interior and the third does engine and chassis) happens to have a lot of body shop experience and can tell that a door's fit is off—but most lay people would never see it.

Ditto if the interior judge has upholstered Ferraris for years and knows that the texture of leather in a particular car is incorrect—but looks fine to you and me.

If the engine/chassis guy has been doing Ferrari V12s for decades and sees that a car has incorrect car buretors, say, few others would ever know and maybe whoever judged the car last didn't know, and did not deduct the penalty for those carburetors.

In a perfect world, we would always have such absolute experts judging our cars, but such expertise is rare and the Chief Judge uses the best talent available that day, and those judges do the best they can, which has actually proven to be pretty darn consistent over the years.

When a team is asked to evaluate ten cars at 100 possible points each, and managed at the end of the day to only award or deduct two or three of those thousand points inconsistently, that's amazing! But, if one of those points was the difference between a Platinum or not...that's not so philosophically accepted.

OK, besides some human variability down at the real minutia level, what else could account for an inconsistent score for the same car between events?

The number of cars in the class to be judged is a big factor. There is a finite amount of time available to complete judging and get the results turned in to the scorekeeper—usually about three hours.

One of the stipulations of IAC/PFA judging is to allot the same amount of time to each car in the class, so all entrants are treated equally. If there are ten cars in a class, the judges have to hustle along to stick to 15 minutes on each. More cars will mean less time for each, but if the class is small, maybe twenty minutes will be available.

What that really means is those cars will be under scrutiny 30% longer, and the longer you look, the more you see. If a car was judged once against eleven others, and the next time there were only six cars in the class, it's almost guaranteed the second score will be more critical.

It rained at Cavallino in 2019, so owners were unable to display their car's paper documentation, and interior judges tried to keep cars' doors closed as much as possible. (And even dull paint looks good when wet!)

While not insignificant, these factors could have contributed to a slightly different score, up or down, for a particular car than it achieved another day. Or, high winds could make opening hoods and doors risky, so judges on that day have to look quickly.

Bottom line, while the IAC/PFA goes to great lengths to provide consistent, objective judging, some subjectivity creeps into a volunteer corps of judges who have varying levels of knowledge and philosophy.

I have judged with some who will note an insignificant flaw on the judging sheet—but deduct no points for it—preferring it to be a teaching experience for the owner. But other judges will exact a half-point toll for the same item, believing they have been charged with objectively evaluating the car, not providing charity.

As judges, most of us love to meet car owners who are eager to improve their cars, and who view judging as a means to gauge their progress, shooting for a little better score at each event. But as we have seen, sometimes other factors may inhibit a point progression and seem like a step back has been taken.

What's our take-away? Having a car judged in several events will result in a good overall appraisal of its correctness—assuming all events were IAC/PFA-judged. If your (unchanged) car was judged four times by multiple judges and scored 95, 98, 94 and 97, that's a pretty consistent and objective evaluation, with the variances attributed to judges' expertise, external factors like rain and especially the time available to judge each car.

Dedicated owners value having their cars expertly evaluated, and will use this year's criticisms to direct their efforts toward a better score next time.

I find the modern car sales interesting. Here are nearly new Ferraris, Ferraris that someone lovingly spent the time to build exactly the way they wanted. Options, details, colors, and materials to personalize a Ferrari to be the ultimate personal automobile and then drive the car 1,200 miles.

Furthermore, after not enjoying the car, they sell their pride and joy while taking a loss in the sale.

I hear it all the time. "If I put miles on it, I will get less when I sell." I contend, how much less would you have gotten if you had put on another ten thousand miles?

Certainly, the cost per mile would have been much more reasonable and the enjoyment would have been worth every penny.

The purchase price is a known quantity, the value when sold is an unknown. Saving the car does nothing to enhance your pleasure. Ferraris are meant to be driven; we should be having fun with our cars.

Somehow, a 950-mile F12tdf hasn't been enjoyed enough. Seems wrong to me. Maybe the new owner will.

250 GT PF COUPE, S/N 1433 GT (1959). Blu with Argento roof, natural leather. Estimate $600,000 to $700,000. The 185th built, with numerous bespoke details including chromed door sills and a 410 Super-america-style air intake on the hood. The engine is a Tipo 128D twin-distributor "inside-plug" engine, along with drum brakes and a four-speed gearbox without overdrive. Originally finished in Grigio Azzurro with a rosso vinyl and leather interior. Sold new on 24 July 1959. It remained in Milan from new until 2002, the original stamped Ministero dei Trasporti registration book documenting its Italian ownership has been preserved and is included. Highly presentable paint and brightwork, a crisp interior, and a very clean engine compartment and undercarriage. 16,930 km. Classiche certified. A complete engine rebuild in 2019. Lot 238. Sold for $638,000.

250 GT/L, S/N 5379 GT (1964). Avorio with rosso interior. Estimate $1.2 million to $1.4 million. The 235th Lusso produced, and the only provided in this color combination. Completed on 22 February 1964, delivered new to Chinetti. In 1988, a full repaint and cosmetic restoration was executed. While the car was repainted years ago it still presents nicely today. Nearly every conceivable leather, wood, rubber, and chrome surface is displayed with a charming degree of patina and age-related wear. Large, age-related splits in the upper dashboard appear in each of the central gauge housings. In 2017 a mechanical servicing included a rebuild, overhaul, tune, and replace of a significant number of components. Additional mechanical work on the transmission, rear axle, engine, and rear Koni shocks was commissioned and completed after further consultation. 46,770 miles. Complete with copies of build sheet, Massini history report, recent invoices, historic photographs, provenance documentation, spare wheel, tool roll, and jack. Lot 115. Sold for $1.5 million.

275 GTB, S/N 6891 (1965). Rosso Barchetta with tan leather. Estimate $1.8 million to $2 million. Originally delivered in Italy in 1965 finished in Grigio Argento with nero leather upholstery. During the 1970s it was exported to the United States, and in 1974 was sold to an owner in Maryland. Offered for sale in Maryland in 1981. Sold on to an owner in Ohio who restored the car to Rosso with tan interior. In 2014 it was sold again and restored again with great care taken to correct previous modifications and poor repair work. The interior was restored using correct leather, as original. The suspension and brakes were completely rebuilt and the dashboard gauges rebuilt. The Campagnolo wheels were restored. Classiche certified. Original tool roll. 96,249 miles. Lot 227. Sold for $1.98 million.

365 GT 2+2, S/N 12777 (1969). Rosso Nearco with nero interior. Estimate $150,000 to $180,000. Delivered new to Modern Classic Motors. Little is known about its early life, however, the car was offered in the Ferrari Market Letter in June 2006. In February 2007 it was shown at the Cavallino Classic. Offered in its original color scheme, along with a history file running to more than 350 pages. Partial tool kit and jack. Lot 208. Sold for $176,000.

550 GT1 PRODRIVE, VIN ZFFZR49B000108418-S/N CRD02 (2001). Rosso corsa with nero interior. Estimate $3.85 million to $4.85 million. This particular chassis is the second of twelve 550 GT1 program commissioned by Care Racing Development to Prodrive. In a competitive career spanning more five years, it competed in 49 races, taking 15 pole positions, 14 outright race wins and finishing on the podium some 29 times. The car only failed to finish on six separate occasions, mainly due to mechanical failure, and on an on-track accident. Since its retirement from competition, CRD 002 has remained in the custody of Care Racing Development. Presented in its Spa 2004 livery, it is accompanied by FIA and ACO technical documents. The car has been fully rebuilt and it shall be delivered to its new owner in race-ready condition for the Masters & Peter Auto Historic championships. Research shows the car raced at that event with engine number 510. That engine is presently being overhauled and dyno-tested and will be installed back into the car prior to September 30, 2020. This particular chassis is last of just fourteen Ferraris to ever win an international 24-hour race outright. Lot 240. Sold for $4.29 million.

575GTZZAGATO F1, VIN ZFFBV55AX50140719 (2005). Dark blue with Avorio roof and tan interior. Estimate $1.75 million to $2.25 million. One of two examples ordered by American customers for delivery to the United States. In its homage to 0515 GT, this 575 GTZ was designed with elements reminiscent of the celebrated TdF's coachwork, including curved fender haunches, the oval eggcrate grille, and double-bubble roof, which is aesthetically mirrored by the voluptuous shape of the rear windscreen. The result is, in true Zagato fashion, a dramatic departure from the 575M Maranello. The interior has tan leather trimmed throughout the cabin. The seats, door panels, dashboard, center console, and the steering wheel all feature the same material, while the transmission tunnel and rear parcel shelf are upholstered in diamond-stitched variations of the same leather. The blue carpets feature borders of tan leather. 3,678 miles. Maintained, and accompanying invoices document regular service at Ferrari of Palm Beach, Florida. Lot 120. Not sold.

612 SCAGLIETTI, VIN ZFFAA54A050142651 (2005). Azzurro California with dark blue leather. Estimate $250,000 to $275,000. Six-speed manual. Options include aluminum brake calipers, run-flat tires with standard rims, heated front seats, and a USA battery charger with prewiring. Sold new through Ferrari of Washington in Sterling, Virginia. Current ownership purchased the car in 2012. In 2017 the car was shown at the Ferrari Club of America Annual Meeting where it took Platinum honors. 5,700 miles. Accompanied by a sales brochure, window sticker, owner's manuals, mini Maglite, tool kit, air pump, and car cover with bag. Lot 218. Sold for $324,500.

SUPERAMERICA F1, VIN ZFF-GT61B000146649 (2006). Rosso corsa with beige leather. Estimate $240,000 to $260,000. Less than 8,700 km. Originally delivered in London. Two years later the car was imported to the United States, where it was registered by the original owner who presumably owned the car for nearly 10 years. Fiorano Handling Package, Scuderia shields. Daytona-style seats, yellow tachometer. Owner's manuals, tools, spare keys, space-saver spare, and car cover with bag. Classiche certified. Lot 152. Sold for $235,000.

F12tdf, VIN ZFF81BFA0H0221381 (2017). Argento Nürburgring with nero Alcantara. Estimate $800,000 to $950,000. One-owner example. Originally delivered in 2017 and in 'as new' condition. 950 miles. Blu NART center stripe and bianco flanking stripes. Giallo calipers and carbon fiber headlamp surrounds, fog light surrounds and door sills, and is fully covered by a clear bra. Alcantara optioned for the center console, dashboard, lower dashboard, headliner and seats. Carbon racing bucket seats with stitched Cavallino Rampante in Blu Medio. Sport exhaust. Upgraded hi-fi and technology pack with front and rear facing cameras. Lot 243. Sold for $825,000.

812 SUPERFAST, VIN ZFF83CLA4J0236573 (2018). Giallo Nancy with Canna di Fucile interior. Estimate $300,000 to $350,000. Crafted through Ferrari's Tailor Made program and finished in May 2018. Its factory personalization plate features a noticeably smaller font, and even then, it can barely fit over 75 line items. Carbon fiber throughout. The front and rear fascia have carbon fiber elements with Tricolore paintwork, which follows the carbon fiber side skirts and sills. 20" staggered forged alloy wheels, carbon ceramic brakes with red calipers. Fender badges are airbrushed, not enameled. Giallo tachometer, steering wheel of carbon fiber. Perforated leather trim, color-matched contrast stitching, and extensive Tricolore details. The door panels, handles, footwells, sills, kick-plates, dash inserts, central console, and transmission bridge in matte carbon fiber with matching nero, giallo, and Canna di Fucile trim. Embroidered headrests, Alcantara headliner features the "starlight" option, with yellow perforations that stand out from the black headliner. 1,900 miles. Accompanied with window sticker, owner's manuals, tools, battery tender, and car cover with bag. Lot 118. Sold for $374,000.

GTC4LUSSO, VIN ZFF82WNA6K0245696 (2019). Blu Pozzi with Terra Bruciata interior. Estimate $250,000 to $300,000. Delivered new to Ferrari of Silicon Valley. 20" forged diamond-cut rims in matte Grigio Corsa, yellow brake calipers, adaptive front lights, suspension lifter, front grille with chromed edges, Scuderia shields, sports exhaust pipe, and the panoramic glass roof. Interior with Blu stitching, which includes the Prancing Horse on the headrest, ventilated full electric seats, Apple CarPlay, passenger display system, high power hi-fi sound system, yellow rev counter, carbon fiber steering wheel with LEDs, a front driving camera, and a vehicle personalization plate. 70 miles. Lot 125. Sold for $258,500.

246 GT, S/N 00690 (1970). Rosso Dino with nero interior. Estimate $300,000 to $350,000. Delivered new in Geneva. By 1974, the car was exported from Le Havre, France, to the United States. Several documents chronicle importation and early service work in California, which include invoices for body repairs to the front end, indicating damage and subsequent repair and paintwork in 1984. The next owner in 2008 commissioned a mechanical restoration, which included a rebuild of the suspension and overhaul of the steering rack and brake. Carburetors and distributor were cleaned and rebuilt as needed. Two years later shown at the Cavallino Classic in 2010, winning an FCA Gold award and scoring 92 points. Subsequently sold to the consignor in 2011. Accompanied with owner's manual, parts book, jack, and tool kit. 52,460 miles. Lot 211. Sold for $440,000.

308 GTB, S/N 26003 (1978). Nero with beige interior. Estimate $75,000 to $95,000. No reserve. Delivered through Ferrari of Los Gatos in 1979 and retains California blue plates. Paintwork is believed to be original in places, though glossy, displays numerous imperfections due to aging. Blaupunkt Bamberg stereo. Major service in 2017 including belt change with tensioners, gaskets, seals, filters and fluids. New battery and Michelin XWX tires. More recently, new rear Koni shocks with superformance springs and new control arm bushings. Owner's manual, tool kit, and matching spare tire. Lot 137. Sold for $71,500.

348 TB ZAGATO SPECIALE, VIN ZFFK-A3B000084810 (1990). Silver with black interior. Estimate $225,000 to $275,000. Custom coachwork crafted by coachbuilder Zagato. Of the ten bodies created by Zagato, this was the last one built. 562 km showing. The odometer appears to have been non-functional for a period of time, the duration of which is unknown, and therefore the true mileage is unknown. Lot 229. Not sold, asking $225,000.

F40, VIN ZFFMN34A6M0087627 (1991). Rosso corsa with rosso upholstery. Estimate $1.25 million to $1.5 million. Built December 1990. One of the 213 examples for the United States. Delivered in March 1991 to Foreign Cars Italia. Re-offered by Foreign Cars Italia in 1994 after accruing 1,656 miles. By 2000 showed around 2,100 miles and by 2008 it had accumulated approximately 4,000 miles. Classiche Red Book. Currently displaying 6,407 miles. Accompanied with owner's manuals in leather pouch, a warranty booklet, and tool roll. Lot 244. Sold for $1.39 million.
