

Diminished Value, Loss of Use, and Total Destruction Claims By Michael Shoemaker

Moderate damage to a vehicle, especially an exotic, almost always results in the following claims: Repairs, Diminished Value, and Loss of Use.

The following explains diminished value and loss of use claims, as well as claims for a totally destroyed vehicle. A Ferrari will be used in this explanation.

VEHICLE DAMAGED AND REPAIRED DIMINISHED VALUE-WHAT IS IT?

If two identical Ferraris (same year, model, color, and options) were being sold for $250,000., and one had been moderately damaged but perfectly repaired so that it was just as good a vehicle as the other Ferrari that had never been damaged, which would you buy?

Almost everyone would only buy the undamaged Ferrari for various reasons.

How do I know that the damaged Ferrari was perfectly repaired? Or, I don't have to buy a repaired Ferrari when I can buy for the same price an identical vehicle that has never been damaged. Or, I am concerned about its resale value.

If you decide to buy the damaged/repaired Ferrari for $200,000. and take your chances, the car has diminished in value $50,000. ($250,000. - $200,000.) as a result of the damage to it.

This is the economic theory and reality of diminished value.

THE CONCEPT OF VALUE

Remember, the damaged and repaired Ferrari is just as pristine a vehicle as the undamaged Ferrari.

One vehicle is just as good as the other. Why won't people buy the damaged and repaired car for the same price as the undamaged one?

The reason must not reside in the vehicles themselves because an equally pristine car would not result in favoritism. The answer must, and indeed does, lie apart from the vehicles.

The answer is: the value of any object rests not in the object itself, but in the minds of the sellers and buyers.

Horses, beaver hats, and buggy whip prices fluctuate with the desires of the sellers and buyers at different times in history.

What one must have today may be worth nothing tomorrow. Knowing that value exists in the mind and not the item explains why prices vary for two identical items with different histories but identical inherent worth.

Thus the correct answer to the question "why did you pay that much or little for something" is: "because I wanted to."

And the answer to the question of "how can the damaged and repaired Ferrari diminish $50,000. when it's just as good a vehicle as the undamaged Ferrari" is: that's all the buying public wanted to pay.

THE LAW

Based on the economic model above, the law defines diminished value as the difference between the market value of a vehicle immediately before an accident ($250,000.) and the market value of the vehicle immediately following its repair ($200,000.).

Market value is defined as the amount that would be paid by a willing buyer to a willing seller when neither, respectively, must buy or sell.

A vehicle's market value may be established before the accident and after its repair with evidence of auction and retail purchases of that vehicle type from sources such as Kelley Blue Book, NADA, auc tions, appropriate dealerships, and private sales.

LOSS OF USE

In addition to diminished value, the owner of a vehicle may be compensated for the loss of its use.

The predominant view is that an owner must elect one of two remedies for loss of use: rental value or lost net profit.

However, the owner should always check applicable state law to determine whether the election must be made or whether the owner can claim both remedies.

RENTAL VALUE

An owner may obtain the rental value (for example, $1,000./day for a Ferrari) for the identical vehicle or a vehicle in the same class as the damaged vehicle, times the number of days (for example, 180 days) required to repair it ($1000./day x 180 days = $180,000.).

A vehicle's rental value is obtained from agencies that rent the identical or same class of vehicle as the owner's damaged vehicle.

NET PROFIT

During the period that an owner has lost use of a vehicle, the owner may obtain lost net profit that the vehicle would have generated had it not been damaged. Normally, a vehicle's lost net profit is determined by the owner, accountant, or economic expert.

VEHICLE TOTALLY DESTROYED

MARKET VALUE

When a vehicle has been totally destroyed, an owner may recover the difference of the vehicle's market value immediately before the vehicle was destroyed (for example, $250,000. for a Ferrari) and immediately following its destruction (for example, a $25,000. salvage value; $250,000. - $25,000. = $225,000.).

LOSS OF USE

For decades an owner could not be compensated for the loss of use of a vehicle that had been totally destroyed.

Now, in addition to its market value at the time of the accident, an owner may obtain the vehicle's rental value ($1,000./day) of the destroyed vehicle or a vehicle in its class, times the reasonable period of time (for example, 100 days) required to replace the vehicle ($1,000./day x 100 days = $100,000.), and/or lost net profit for the reasonable period of time required to replace the vehicle.

A vehicle is considered to be totally destroyed when its repair cost exceeds the vehicle's market value immediately before the damage occurred.

SUMMARY

In summary, the possible claims for a Ferrari after it has been damaged and repaired or totally destroyed are:

DAMAGED AND REPAIRED VEHICLE

DIMINISHED VALUE

Vehicle's market value ($250,000.) immediately before it is damaged minus the vehicle's market value immediately after its repair ($200,000.) = $50,000.; and

LOSS OF USE

Rental fee ($1,000./day) of the damaged vehicle or a vehicle in its class times the loss of use period (180 days) = $180,000., and/or

The vehicle's lost net profit.

TOTALLY DESTROYED VEHICLE

MARKET VALUE

Market value immediately before the vehicle's destruction ($250,000.) minus its market value immediately after its destruction ($25,000.) = $225,000.; and

LOSS OF USE

Rental fee ($1,000./day) for the totally destroyed vehicle or a vehicle in its class times the reasonable period of time (100 days) required to replace the vehicle = $100,000., and/or

The vehicle's lost net profit for the reasonable number of days required to replace it.

FCA-Southwest celebrates ENZO'S BIRTHDAY AT THE PETERSEN MUSEUM

A good example of defying a bad weather report

By Wallace Wyss

It had been raining for weeks. On the morning of the February event, it was a 70% chance of rain, starting at 11 a.m.

The FCA Southwest region said “pedal to the metal” and probably upwards of 100 cars showed up for a beautiful morning event.

The venue was the famed Petersen Museum, a museum started originally by magazine publisher (Motor Trend, HOT ROD, et al) Robert E. Petersen.

The event actually started the evening before with a reception for those in the Petersen VIP group. That reception, held on the “penthouse” fourth floor of the parking structure, gave attendees a great view of Hollywood and the Hollywood Hills, plus some wonderful Italian pasta and a panel discussion.

There were three guest speakers: Derek Hill, the son of race pilot (and World Champion) Phil Hill; Michael Leventhal, a significant Ferrari collector for 50 years; and Bruce Meyer, who is on the Museum board and a significant collector of many brands.

The panel discussion was illuminating. Derek Hill showed his new book which revealed that Phil Hill was taking more pictures as a race driver than some photographers.

Hill has made it a labor of love to put these into a series of splendidly produced hardbound books. Mrs. Phil Hill was there too and she is always good at making a wisecrack.

Mr. Leventhal told of the many significant cars that escaped his grasp including a short wheelbase berlinetta in alloy that he sold because someone in Europe was making a copy of it and had found the correct engine. Which in a way invalidated his cars' history though his was the real thing. (Not to worry, he does own a very early Barchetta that is a valuable artifact as well).

Bruce Meyer re-affirmed what I heard Hans Tanner had confirmed previously: in the 1950s and 1960s, Ferrari with their works cars and some private teams would switch chassis plate numbers before going through customs so they wouldn't have to pay duties, which plays hob with historians decades later in trying to find out which car raced where.

Mr. Leventhal was enthusiastic about members driving their cars, He gave the example of meeting someone bragging about owning a 288 GTO with “only 400 miles on it”. He thinks that the real joy of owning a Ferrari is best discovered by driving it.

Bruce Meyer, who later displayed his silver Testa Rossa, said he drives his cars on the street every chance he gets.

The next day, the weather was sunny and bright and easily 100 cars showed up. Not too many were “historical” like Bruce Meyer's silver Testa Rossa, but there was also a Lusso, a Boxer and a Dino.

Most of the rest were newer cars, including very new ones.

One car that looked like it was not even in the same family so to speak was a Dino Fiat coupe by Bertone, one of the front engine ones. It may have been Giugiaro styled but was more like an Isuzu 117 than a Ferrari.

The crowd consisted mostly of FCA folk, though the Petersen should be lauded for being so generous in their policy of letting anybody come in off the street to their outdoor cruise-in shows, at no cost.

Now if the off-the-street visitors want to go inside the Museum and see the displays, they have to trek down four floors to the ticket office and buy an admission ticket.

There were free bagels and coffee and everybody managed to clear the area before the temperature dropped 20 degrees and the rains came.

Lesson learned? Sometimes you gotta go despite the weather report and hope for the best.

Book Review: The Ferrari 550 and 575 Road and Race Legends By Jim Weed

Prolific writer Nathan Beehl has done it again. He has authored many books on Ferrari automobiles. His previous titles covering the Ferrari 'P' Series racecars, Daytona, Ferrari 512, Dino 246 GT and Supercars are at home in our library.

One of his previous books was The Ferrari Berlinetta Boxer, The Road and Race Legends. Continuing this theme is his newest book, The Ferrari 550 and 575 Road and Race Legends.

My first thought was, how much can be said about a 550 Maranello? My next thought was gee, I'll have to do a review. Sometimes the thought of reading about boring Ferraris makes it difficult to get motivated.

Several days later there is a box on the front steps all the way from Great Brittan. I opened the box and put on top of my reading pile. I try to spend twenty minutes every day quietly reading some random Ferrari book from our extensive library.

Since acquiring the entire Gerald Roush library there are many books I have never seen, much less read. So, I am trying to cram as much knowledge as possible into my head.

The next morning I crack open The 550 and 575 Road and Race Legends, and do a quick flip through its pages. I'm greeted with large clear pictures inviting me into the pages.

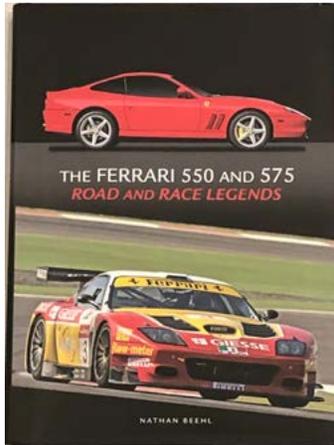

Starting with the 550 Maranello, Beehl begins with a short history lesson putting the reader into the mind of Ferrari and Pininfarina. What did Ferrari want to accomplish with the next great V-12 engined car? How would Pininfarina bring elements of the past and meld them into the future?

Beehl explains the design process with many of the drawings created by Pininfarina. Although many of the styling cues were not used on the 550 Maranello they have been used on subsequent models like the 612 Scaglietti and F12berlinetta.

The information highlighting important details are presented in a clear and concise manor with photos along the way for emphasis. The mechanical details are also covered. Engine design, brakes and suspension are all described in detail without the boring recitation of various facts and figures.

Following the evolution of the series, the variants are presented with clear explanation of the changes necessary to create the next models: the 550 Maranello WSR and 550 Barchetta.

There is also a section listing the options available, what the tool kit contents should be and examples of luggage and manuals. All are shown with large pictures for reference.

Sometimes the perfect car becomes the perfect platform for modifications. Speciales are covered in their own chapter. The Pininfarina Rossa, Barchetta GTZ by Zagato, Koenig Twin-Turbo, Sbarro and others all have a mention.

The next evolutionary models, the 575M Maranello and Superamerica are treated to the same standard with clear explanations of the changes and upgrades coupled with fantastic photos.

Again, the Speciales have their place with many photos of the 575 GTZ, the 575 GTRS by Edo Competition and the Novitec 575.

There is also a chapter on every manual, brochure and press release from the factory and if that is not enough information, there is another list of every model made of the 550 and 575 in every size and scheme.

Of course you know that there were race cars. Each 550 and 575M that was turned into a racing vehicle has its own section. Details as to who modified the chassis and what the outcome of its racing career is comprehensively recorded for each chassis.

I was surprised by the detail of each car's racing history. Every chassis, every finish and each page is peppered with action photos.

Then to finish, the last chapters have a complete racing database by date, race, serial number, finish position and other details.

If that isn't enough, every serial number is identified; I mean every serial number.

Well, I can't guarantee every number because I haven't compared the list to our database, but it looks like every one is there.

My twenty minute morning session turned into more than an hour each morning reading this book. I had trouble putting it down. I learned so much while flipping through the pages there were several sections I went back and re-read.

This book has everything: history, racing, literature, database and serial numbers. If you ever think you will need reference material for the 550 Maranello and 575M, or any of its variants, this book is a must-have.

Nathan Beehl has again created a high-standard reference book that will be consulted well into the future.

All interior electronics appear to be working, including the clock, Blaupunkt Frankfurt radio, windows and A/C fan speeds. All glass shows original etchings, along with the front windshield recommended tire pressures decal for the Michelin XWXs on the Cromodora 7.5x15" wheels. The undercarriage is remarkably solid. Engine and luggage compartments are tidy, noting both bonnet pads have been removed and do accompany the sale, along with several other small original parts. Correct jack, wrench and lug nut socket in roll, along with a European emergency triangle and wheel spanner for the Rudge knockoffs. Out of long term storage, highly original, very solid and nicely detailed. 108,568 kms (67,461 miles). $89,500. 4405

1959 Ferrari 250/500TRC (DK Engineering)
Titled as a 1962 Ferrari 250 GTE

F40 Motorsports is proud to offer this very rare DK Engineering 250/500 TRC (TR83). S/N 2423 was originally converted from a 250 GTE 2+2 Series I LHD into a 250/500 TRC by David Cottingham himself - this of the DK Engineering Fame, in the 1980s. It retains its original title as a 250 Ferrari, and is an absolutely stunning example of true old world craftsmanship and unsurpassed quality. This fine TRC has been owned by only a handful of the most discerning automobile collectors. Eligible for historic events as well as the Copper State 1000 and Colorado Grand to name a couple. The last DK Engineering car came up for sale three years ago. A unique opportunity to own one of the most beautiful, rare, and most sought after David Cottingham TRs. It is stunning and ready to go. You won't find another like this, and it's here at F40 Motorsports for your viewing.

THE COBRA-FERRARI WARS 1963-1965, 2nd edition. Signed by the author. The true story of the great GT cars of the mid 1960s and the "men who made the adventure possible". From the book [John Morton]: "Miles came in and he looked tired. He was thin anyway and beside that big Cobra he looked small, his face sunken around his hook nose. So I got in the car. I had never driven anything like this. I had no idea how it would feel, but I thought it better not be too bad or I'm going to look like an ass in front of a lot of people. I was shaking when I buckled myself in. Here I was going to drive the Sebring 12 Hours in a factory Cobra that was the fastest car I'd ever driven, on a track I'd never seen, on a team with Dan Gurney and Ken Miles. My mind couldn't handle all that. I remember depressing the clutch and thinking it was heavy and looking and seeing my clutch leg was trembling so badly it was making my whole body vibrate." $49.95 includes shipping within the U.S. 4406

The Ferrari Market Letter is totally independent and is not affiliated with Ferrari S.p.A., Ferrari North America, any Ferrari club or other Ferrari venture. It is published in print AND posted online, approximately once every two weeks (but definitely 26 times a year)!

Classified advertisements from current subscribers offering Ferraris for sale are published free of charge, appear in six consecutive issues unless cancelled earlier, and are then automatically cancelled unless renewed by the advertiser. Ferrari-related memorabilia, miscellaneous, wanted, etc., ads are accepted and published free of charge with certain additional restrictions (i.e. only one ad per category). Free ads are subjected to editing to conserve space. All classified ads must be Ferrari related.

Classified ads from non-subscribers and all display advertisements are published only on a prepaid basis. Please inquire for rates and specifications.

We reserve the right to edit all ads for accuracy and to suit our format. We reserve the right to refuse any ads which do not meet our requirements. We are not responsible for errors in fact or content.

Unsolicited materials for publication consideration are welcome, and will be returned if requested. Material accepted for publication is subject to revision and editing to meet our requirements. Submitting material for consideration constitutes an express warranty by the contributor that the material is in no way an infringement on the rights of others.
